Community Development Fund continues to make communities better

WHITEHORSE—The Government of Yukon awarded more than $156,000 towards community-based projects through the Community Development Fund. These Tier 1 projects will provide more than 2,400 hours of employment for approximately 30 people, continuing the fund's legacy of promoting social, cultural and economic benefits to Yukoners.

"The variety of projects dedicated to enhancing our community knowledge and well-being through the Community Development Fund in this intake are a demonstration of Yukoners' commitment to making Yukon an even better place than ever," Minister of Economic Development Stacey Hassard said. "From historical research to trail restoration, our communities are benefitting from easy access to our Community Development Fund to complete these great projects."

Projects include the purchase of a big top tent for the Town of Faro, with the Community Development Fund providing $20,000, creating eight hours of employment for four people. The tent will be used for community events and activities during the summer months, with the goals of unifying the community and encouraging community participation and spirit.

"The Town of Faro is excited to continue implementing our community unification project with the purchase of our big top tent, which was made possible through funding provided by the Community Development Fund," manager of operations Trevor Piercey said. "This will allow us to provide a protected common area to host community events and bring residents and visitors of Faro closer together in the interest of growing our community spirit."

The Yukon Arts Centre Corporation will receive $18,000 to hire an events coordinator to oversee the Aboriginal Curatorial/Collectif des commissaires autochtones (ACC/CCA) Kwàn Mày Dáyè Dàáth'i (Sit by the Fire With Us) Gathering in Whitehorse this fall. The project will create 500 hours of employment.

"We cannot wait to welcome the Aboriginal Curatorial Collective Kwàn Mày Dáyè Dàáth'i (Sit by the Fire With Us) Gathering to Whitehorse this September," Yukon Arts Centre Gallery director/curator Mary Bradshaw said, "The gathering, which includes an honouring feast, workshops and traditional talking circles, will bring together Indigenous heritage and cultural workers from across the territory and the country. The CDF funding allows us to hire a local Event Coordinator to ensure the three day event runs smoothly."
