Statement from the premier in response to the resignation of the Yukon Water Board chair

The premier has issued the following statement regarding the resignation of Yukon Water Board chairperson Lorelee Johnstone. The resignation is effective end of day May 26, 2017.

"I would like to thank Lorelee for her service to the Yukon Water Board. In particular, I would like to recognize her leadership and hard work on the Mine Licensing Improvement Initiatives, and thank her for advocating for a more effective and efficient approach to regulation of mining projects. I understand that Lorelee has other professional opportunities that she wishes to pursue, and I wish her all the best in her future endeavours.

"The Yukon government plans on filling the board vacancy and will work to appoint a new chair as soon as practical."

–Premier Sandy Silver
