FOR RELEASE #10-174
September 15, 2010

Fifteen community projects receive CDF funding

WHITEHORSE – The Community Development Fund (CDF) is awarding $812,985 to various community projects under Tier 2 funding.

"Money allocated to these projects represents Government of Yukon's commitment to achieving a better quality of life by building healthy, safe communities with skilled and adaptable people," Economic Development Minister Jim Kenyon said. "Yukoners will benefit from a number of sport and recreational infrastructure projects and have opportunities to network with local and international professionals to assist and advance the needs of special groups."

Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Society of Yukon (FASSY) was awarded $47,000 to host a symposium where participants will share current research and have the opportunity to network and celebrate successes.

"The name of our symposium is Walking Together - Connecting Practice and Research to Create Change and the goal of the event is to connect researchers with those who are practising in this area," FASSY Executive Director Brooke Alsbury said. "We want to take what we learn to bring about changes in our existing programs as well as build networks and relationships."

"This is a collaborative project with many local partners. The date for the symposium is September 28 and 29 at the High Country Inn Convention Centre and there has already been a great deal of interest shown," Alsbury added.

The Yukon Council on disABILITY was awarded $74,100 to design and organize a major international conference entitled Six Steps to Success on best practices related to employing people with disabilities.

"We are very excited about this conference since it will highlight some of the most significant advancement in best practices world-wide. It will open up opportunities for persons with disabilities to find meaningful work and for employers to meet labour market demand," conference coordinator George Green said. "It will also provide valuable knowledge and skills to assist professionals providing services to persons with disabilities."

"It is our hope that this will be the first step in the development of a Yukon Disabilities Employment Strategy that will help meet the current labour market challenges. Conference presenters and delegates are attending from Canada, the U.S., England, Australia and Germany with over 300 people expected to participate," Green added.

The next intake deadline for Tier 1 applications is October 15. Organizations are encouraged to contact community development advisors for assistance with their applications and project ideas well before the deadline.
