
Home / Health and wellness / COVID-19 information / Current COVID-19 situation

Information current

July 6, 2020

We're in Phase 2 of lifting COVID-19 restrictions. If you have non-medical questions, email covid19info@gov.yk.ca or phone 1-877-374-0425.

For medical questions or if you feel ill, phone 811, or launch the COVID-19 self-assessment tool.

Current COVID-19 situation

Latest information

As of July 1:

- people entering a Yukon airport building or terminal have to wear a non-medical mask or face covering;
- residents from British Columbia, the Northwest Territories and Nunavut can travel to Yukon without self-isolating;
- residents from other parts of Canada can travel to Yukon, but will have to self-isolate for 14 days upon arriving in the territory;
- outdoor gatherings can include up to 50 people; and
- pools can reopen.

We've published guidance for organizations supporting vulnerable people.

All residents of Canada who live outside Yukon, British Columbia, the Northwest Territories and Nunavut will have to self-isolate for 14 days in Whitehorse when they arrive in the territory.

What phase we're in now

Phase 2 started on July 1, 2020.

Prohibited services

No services are prohibited in Yukon.

Media updates

The next media update from Yukon's Chief Medical Officer of Health is on Wednesday, July 8, at 2 p.m. Watch it live on the Government of Yukon's Facebook page.

Media updates are every Wednesday at 2 p.m. except on public holidays.

Public updates

Read the COVID-19 public updates from the Emergency Measures Organization.

Current phase (started July 1; end date to be determined)

Being in Phase 2 of Yukon's plan for lifting COVID-19 restrictions means:

- restaurants can provide dine-in services at 100% capacity if they can maintain physical distancing, as well as take-out;
- personal services can reopen;
- people should travel responsibly within the territory;
- everyone must continue practising the safe 6;
- people can gather indoors socially in groups of 10 or fewer people;
- people can gather outdoors socially in groups of up to 50 people;
- households can combine with 1 other household to form a 2-household bubble even if that amounts to more than 10 people.

Self-isolation

- Residents of Yukon, British Columbia, Northwest Territories and Nunavut do not have to self-isolate when they arrive in the territory.
- Residents of other parts of Canada who arrive in Yukon must self-isolate, with limited exceptions.

Find out more about what being in Phase 2 means.

Travel and borders

See all information about travel and borders.

If you're travelling to Alaska

The border between the United States and Canada is closed to all non-essential travel. Americans can travel into Canada if they're travelling:

- to Alaska; or
- from Alaska to the rest of the United States.

Americans travelling through Yukon have to follow a designated travel corridor. We give travellers a map of this route at Yukon borders. The State of Alaska introduced travel guidance. Read Alaska's health guidance for travellers during the COVID-19 pandemic.

If you're travelling to Northwest Territories

Before you travel, read Northwest Territories travel guidelines.

Next phase (date to be determined)

Find out more about Phase 3.

Get support

- Find social and business supports
- Your health during the COVID-19 pandemic
- Get information on self-isolation
- Find guidelines and recommendations

Yukon COVID-19 test results updated: July 6, 2020 – 14:00

The last person in Yukon who had COVID-19 was recovered on May 1, 2020.

Total people tested	1,306
Confirmed cases	11

Recovered cases	11
Negative results	1,287
Pending results	8

Contact:

If you have a non-medical question, email covid19info@gov.yk.ca.

If you have a medical question, phone 811.

Was this page helpful? *

